Introduction

The Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program (Arrest Program) encourages jurisdictions to implement mandatory or pro-arrest policies as an effective domestic violence intervention that is part of a coordinated community response. The Program assumes that the arrest of a batterer will leverage the coercive and persuasive power of the criminal justice system to ensure victim safety and lead to close judicial scrutiny and management of the behavior of violent offenders.

Historically, the criminal justice system treated domestic violence as a private, family matter. Only in the past two decades has spouse and partner violence been acknowledged as a crime requiring the full force and attention of the criminal justice system. This transformation occurred largely as a result of the efforts of advocates for victims of domestic violence who worked within their own communities to ensure that abused women¹ were accorded the same legal ¹Although both women and men may be victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, women are the victims of the vast majority of these crimes. According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, more than 85% of violent victimizations by intimate partners between 1993 and 1998 were perpetrated against women. Women are between 13 and 14 times more likely than men to be raped or sexually assaulted; for instance, in 1994, 93% of sexual assaults were perpetrated against women. Four of five stalking victims are women. Moreover, the study indicated that Indian Women are victimized at a rate higher than any other group in the United States, including a rape/sexual assault victimization rate more than twice as high as the rate for Black women and more than three and a half times higher than the national rate. Data on male victimization do not document comparable victimizations and injury levels, do not account for women who act in self defense, and do not measure financial control, intimidation, and isolation used by perpetrators of domestic violence against women. For these reasons, this application kit may refer to victims as women and perpetrators as men. However, protections as other crime victims. Advocates--and their partners in the criminal justice system--sought vigorous enforcement of existing laws and enactment of new, stronger laws to address domestic violence.² Many new laws provided broader police powers to arrest perpetrators of domestic violence, including arrest without a warrant when a law enforcement officer has probable cause to believe that a crime has been committed.³

Accordingly, in recent years, many police departments have implemented policies and practices that encourage or mandate warrantless arrest of a perpetrator of domestic violence based on probable cause or for violating a protection order.⁴ Federal law also requires all states to honor certain protection orders issued by other jurisdictions.

The complex dynamics of domestic violence demand that police officers receive training and focus on victim safety. Some mandatory or pro-arrest policies direct responding officers to arrest the primary aggressor in a domestic violence incident. These policies reduce the risk of dual arrests, which trivialize the seriousness of domestic violence and potentially increase danger to victims. Most importantly, arrest of the batterer conveys a message to the victim, the family, and the community that domestic violence is a serious crime that will not be tolerated.

Mandatory or pro-arrest policies also offer the potential benefit of deterring future abuse if the offender is separated from the victim and held publicly accountable for the violence. Research indicates that arresting perpetrators can be a strong deterrent, even without a conviction.⁴ Arrest, accompanied by a thorough investigation and meaningful sanctions, demonstrates to offenders that they have committed a serious crime and communicates to victims that they do not have to endure the offender's abuse. Moreover, arrest of the offender sends a broader public message -- that violent behavior, even between intimates, is criminal. For arrest to be an effective domestic violence intervention, it must be a part of a coordinated community response to the problem and it must leverage the power of the entire criminal justice system. Arrest must be followed by immediate arraignment and a thorough investigation. Orders of protection must be strongly and consistently enforced. Cases must be vigorously prosecuted. Designated dockets must be created to enhance the management of domestic violence cases and to expedite the scheduling of trials. The violent behavior of domestic violence offenders must be managed through frequent judicial oversight and the use of graduated sanctions. Perpetrators of domestic violence require intense supervision. Probation and parole agencies must develop strategies for closely monitoring offenders and strictly enforcing the terms and conditions of probation or parole.

At each juncture in the criminal justice process, the actions of all partners in the system should be guided by concerns for victim safety. Mechanisms should be put in place to allow the voices and experiences of victims of domestic violence, particularly those who have sought assistance from the criminal justice system, to inform the development of policies, protocols, procedures, and programs. These mechanisms should ensure that the diverse experiences of victims are considered--particularly the experiences of women of color, immigrant women, the elderly, women with disabilities and women from other traditionally underserved parts of the community.

Criminal justice agencies must collaborate among themselves and in respectful partnership with victim advocates from nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs, including local shelters, advocacy organizations and domestic violence coalitions to ensure that victim safety is a paramount consideration in the development of any strategy to address domestic violence. Additionally, representatives from criminal justice agencies working to prevent and reduce domestic violence must have a clear understanding of the roles of governmental and nongovernmental victim assistance programs and they must be able to distinguish how they are different.

Governmental and nongovernmental victim advocates provide critical personal support to victims and assist them with safety planning. They may provide information about their jurisdiction's criminal justice system and local resources and services, and they may refer victims to local programs or shelters.

Victim advocates working for governmental agencies are often referred to as victim-witness assistants or coordinators. They frequently work for police departments, city or district attorneys or other governmental agencies. Their responsibilities may vary from interviewing the victim when the case enters the system; initiating a process for safety planning; notifying the victim when the perpetrator is released from jail and explaining the conditions of release or bail; assisting the local prosecutor in gathering evidence for the case; making sentencing recommendations to the judge; working collaboratively with a local shelter and probation to keep the victim informed of terms of supervision and protection orders; and assisting the victim in processing a crime victim compensation claim.

The most important distinction between governmental and non-governmental advocacy is that the communications between a governmental victim advocate and a victim are not confidential. Independent advocates working for nonprofit, nongovernmental agencies--including shelters, law school clinics, legal service agencies for victims of domestic violence or other local domestic violence programs--often do many of the same things that governmental advocates do, but they tend to work with victims on a long-term basis. They may be located in a governmental agency (e.g., a police department, a prosecutor's office or a court) but because they are employees of nonprofit, nongovernmental agencies, they maintain their independence and can adhere to their own internal policies of confidentiality. Communications with attorney advocates are almost always privileged and confidential.

Independent advocates often assist victims with safety planning over time and their ultimate goal is to enhance victim safety as well as the personal well-being, agency and autonomy of each victim. They may counsel victims on personal and legal issues, referring them to liaison organizations for emergency shelter, comprehensive health services, educational services, and legal or community services. They may connect victims with other advocates or survivors who can provide much needed support. They may assist in acquiring a protection order, accompany victims to court on multiple occasions, and provide legal assistance and representation when necessary. Independent legal advocates also may provide the prosecutor with assistance in preparing a case at the request of their clients. Activities involved in legal advocacy also may include helping the court to craft sanctions, helping the victim obtain economic support, and assisting in creating safe visitation plans.

Finally, Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders challenge victim advocates, police officers, pre-trial service personnel, prosecutors, judges and other court personnel, probation and parole officers and community leaders to work together to craft solutions to overcome the problem of domestic violence. It challenges the entire community to listen, communicate, identify problems, share ideas that will result in new responses to ensure victim safety and offender accountability.

Scope of Program

Congress has appropriated $33 million for the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program for Fiscal Year 2001. A portion of the funds provided under this program has been set aside to provide technical assistance to grantees and for purposes of research and evaluation. The scope of the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program is outlined by the statutory Program Purposes and the Special Interest Categories set forth below.

A. Authorized Program Purposes

Ensuring victim safety and offender accountability are the guiding principles underlying the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program. The Violence Against Women Act of 2000 directs that the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program be used to:

- ☐ Implement mandatory arrest or pro-arrest programs and policies in police departments, including mandatory arrest programs or pro-arrest programs and policies for protection order violations;
- ☐ Develop policies, educational programs, and training programs in police departments to improve tracking of cases involving domestic violence and dating violence;
- ☐ Centralize and coordinate police enforcement, prosecution, probation, parole and/or judicial responsibility for domestic violence cases in groups or units of police officers, prosecutors, probation and parole officers or judges;
- ☐ Coordinate computer tracking systems to ensure communication between police, prosecutors, parole and probation officers and both criminal and family courts;
- ☐ Strengthen legal advocacy service programs for victims of domestic violence and dating violence, including strengthening assistance to such victims in immigration matters;
- ☐ Educate judges in criminal and other courts, including juvenile courts, about domestic violence and to improve judicial handling of such cases.
- ☐ Provide technical assistance and computer and other equipment to police departments, prosecutors, courts, and tribal jurisdictions to facilitate the widespread enforcement of protection orders, including interstate enforcement, enforcement between States and tribal jurisdictions, and enforcement between tribal jurisdictions.

- Develop or strengthen policies and training for police, prosecutors, and the judiciary in recognizing, investigating, and prosecuting instances of domestic violence and sexual assault against older individuals⁵ and individuals with disabilities.⁶

B. Special Interest Categories

In Fiscal Year 2001, OJP is interested in funding States, Indian tribal governments, State and local courts, and units of local government that have implemented--or plan to implement--promising approaches that respond to domestic violence as a serious violation of criminal law within the Special Interest Categories set forth below. (Note: Indian tribal governments may apply to this Program under the general application herein, or the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program Application Kit directed for Indian Tribal Governments.) Although applications that address any of the statutory Program Purposes outlined above are eligible for funding in Fiscal Year 2001, OJP is especially interested in supporting new projects or the expansion of current Arrest grant activities included in these Special Interest Categories. All applicants are required to collaborate with nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs.

The following list does not imply any ordering of priorities among categories.

1. Enforcement of protection orders and implementation of the full faith and credit provision of the Violence Against Women

⁵ As defined in section 102 of the Older Americans Act of 1965 (42 U.S.C. 3002).

⁶ As defined in section 3(2) of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12102(2)).

Act.

The Office of Justice Programs is interested in supporting an array of new projects, or expansions of existing efforts, that promote innovative, collaborative strategies for the inter- and intra-State and tribal enforcement of protection orders and the effective implementation of the full faith and credit provision of the Violence Against Women Act.

Prior to the enactment of the Violence Against Women Act, a victim who obtained a protection order from her home State or tribe often could not rely on that order as a basis for protection if the victim worked, traveled or moved to most other States or tribes. Under the Violence Against Women Act, a victim may now expect enforcement of a valid protection order in a new jurisdiction.

Although there is no universal approach to the effective implementation of the full faith and credit provision of the Violence Against Women Act, State and tribal law enforcement agencies, courts, prosecutors, nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs, and private attorneys are encouraged to collaborate on efforts and strategies designed to bolster the enforcement of protection orders across jurisdictions. To further enhance the cross-jurisdictional safety of domestic violence victims, any registry developed or enhanced through Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enhancement of Protection Orders must be compatible with the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) Protection Order File. Additionally, any arrangements, equipment, facilities, and procedures used for the receipt, storage, interagency exchange or dissemination, and/or analysis of criminal intelligence information throughout the project must comply with 28 CFR Part 23, Criminal Intelligence Systems Operating Policies.

States, Indian tribal governments, State and local courts, and units of local government are strongly encouraged to collaborate on the development of projects that promote cross-jurisdictional enforcement of protection orders through a variety of means, including, but not limited to:

- the sponsorship of regional full faith and credit workshops for relevant stakeholders;
- the creation or expansion of State, tribal, or regional protection order registries;

- the linkage of currently operating protection order registries throughout a State or region;
- the modification of a currently operating protection order registry to be compatible with a state registry and/or the National Crime Information Center's (NCIC) Protection Order File;
- the development and adoption of uniform protection order forms;
- the modification of a data tracking system to be compatible with a State protection order registry in order to transfer protection order data;
- the provision of specialized, cross-jurisdictional training for teams of judges, police officers, prosecutors, probation officials and victim advocates;
- the creation or enhancement of local, inter- or intra-State and tribal communication and case tracking systems to assist law enforcement in determining if there is an outstanding order of protection against an offender, whether the offender has previously been arrested for assaulting the victim or another victim, or if charges are pending against the perpetrator for prior alleged domestic violence; and
- the creation or enhancement of management information systems to provide prosecutors and judges with access to case information on prior arrests or convictions for domestic violence, prior issuance of protection orders, other matters involving the same family pending before the court, and the current availability of resources and services for the victim.

2. Community-driven initiatives to address violence against women among diverse, traditionally underserved populations.

Domestic violence is a crime that cuts across race, ethnicity, socioeconomic class, sexual orientation, religion and age. It occurs in rural and urban areas alike. It is not specific to any culture. Domestic violence is based on a well-established belief that one intimate partner has the right to use violence as a legitimate means of exercising power and maintaining control over the other. Far too often perpetrators rely on power, privilege, cultural stereotypes and cultural relativism to justify their violent behavior, thereby avoiding community and legal sanctions.

As the population of the United States becomes more diverse, it is becoming increasingly clear that a standardized approach to domestic violence has severe limitations. Access to services and support for abused women varies widely among various communities. Social, economic, linguistic and cultural considerations can dramatically affect abused women's access to the criminal justice system and their ability to ensure their own safety. Solutions must be developed within the communities being served rather than being imposed on them from the outside. Programs should be developed in partnership with the affected communities and tailored to respond to the needs of the targeted community incorporating the specific realities confronting each community. In addition, the creation of partnerships among domestic violence victim advocates who represent diverse groups, representatives from the criminal justice system, and community leaders is essential to shift public opinion and assist in creating social and cultural change regarding violence against women.

Within this category, OJP encourages the development of efforts to build the capacity of communities to respond to the needs of victims of domestic violence from diverse, traditionally underserved populations such as women of color, immigrant women, women with disabilities, women in same-sex relationships, and elderly women. Initiatives of special interest to OJP include:

- outreach by domestic violence victim advocates to community leaders and organizations to obtain the support and expertise of individuals and groups outside the field of domestic violence, such as, leaders and members of faith communities, members of service organizations, neighborhood associations and watch groups, community development organizations, organizations affiliated with public housing, labor unions, cultural groups and institutions, membership organizations, or local business leaders;
- direct financial support to build the capacity of organizations currently serving diverse populations, staffed by representatives of the diverse population to be served;
- the creation of community-based advisory groups of domestic violence victims and survivors to educate the community and representatives from the criminal justice system on the needs and fears of abused women. These advisory groups should also provide a formal mechanism for obtaining advice and feedback from abused women on the development of policies, procedures or community initiatives that will have a direct impact on their lives;

- the sponsorship of community forums to address domestic violence in the unique context of the community, and the multi-faceted issues facing the community that are directly related to domestic violence;
- needs assessments of special populations to be served and the development of a strategic plan for the implementation of culturally sensitive interventions to domestic violence, including the development of effective, individualized community sanctions for perpetrators of domestic violence and the development of services, resources and protection mechanisms for victims; and
- efforts by the criminal justice system to sanction domestic violence through the development of partnerships with diverse groups to strengthen community sanctions for violence against women, creating strong links between community leaders and organizations and representatives from the criminal justice system.

3. Partnerships between the business community and the criminal justice system to enhance the safety of women in the community.

Domestic violence is not simply a matter between two people. It is a serious crime which affects the entire community. Even the workplace can be an unsafe place for victims of domestic violence. A victim may elude her abuser by moving to a shelter or an undisclosed location. However, if she is employed, the perpetrator almost always can find her if he knows where she works.

OJP is interested in supporting community-based domestic violence projects that bring together multi-disciplinary teams composed of representatives from law enforcement, prosecution, domestic violence programs, chief executive officers of local businesses, corporate security organizations, employee assistance professionals, lawyers representing corporations, human resource professionals and others to:

- develop or adapt model protocols to ensure the safety of domestic violence victims in the workplace;

- train local business leaders on the tactics of batterers, the complex dynamics of domestic violence and the relationship between domestic violence, stalking, and workplace violence;
- establish formal linkages between businesses and community policing units to institutionalize problem-solving techniques that will lead to the prevention of violence against women in the workplace; and
- sponsor community forums designed to bring local business and criminal justice system leaders and community members together to address the problem of domestic violence and the workplace.

4. Community policing to reduce and prevent violence against women.

In their continuing attempts to find effective strategies to prevent and reduce domestic violence, many police departments are implementing innovative community policing approaches. Advocates for community policing and battered women agree that a community policing approach to domestic violence must be a joint endeavor between law enforcement and victim advocates. Community policing methods redefine the role of police officers, encouraging stronger relations between police officers and the communities they serve and a more creative approach to solving crime. This emphasis on enhanced involvement on both sides fosters trust and communication to strengthen the early identification and response to domestic violence. Effective community policing to prevent domestic violence demands vigorous enforcement of the law and requires a commitment to deploy the necessary departmental resources for addressing domestic violence swiftly and effectively. Through community policing programs, police departments can implement early intervention strategies and establish coordinated community responses to domestic violence in partnership with victim advocates and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services agencies as well as other community organizations.

OJP is committed to the application of community policing to assist in overcoming domestic violence and is interested in the development of local initiatives that:

- create stronger relationships and respectful partnerships between the police and advocates for victims of domestic violence, shelters and other nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services agencies;
- support the police, victim advocates, community residents and representatives from other criminal justice agencies to work collaboratively to develop innovative, more effective responses to domestic violence which will enhance victim safety and quality of life;
- develop creative, innovative education and training programs for community policing officers on the complex dynamics of domestic violence and the tactics of batterers;
- develop creative, innovative education and training programs for victim advocates and other community representatives on the principles and theories that guide community policing and the application of problem solving to domestic violence; and
- develop local initiatives in partnership with victim advocates that apply community policing strategies--particularly problem-solving--to reduce the incidence of domestic violence, hold perpetrators of domestic violence accountable for their criminal behavior, break the cycle of violence and assist victims in their pursuit of safety, agency and autonomy.

5. Initiatives within police departments to address the problem of police officers who are perpetrators of domestic violence.

Domestic violence occurs in virtually all segments of our society, including intimate relationships involving police officers. The presence of domestic violence in the personal lives of police officers influences the way they respond to domestic violence incidents and undermines the credibility of the police department. The ability of departmental leadership to effectively enforce mandatory or pro-arrest laws and policies may suffer, along with their credibility. To counter this debility, some departments have adopted internal protocols and policies governing the appropriate departmental response to police officers who are batterers. However, many jurisdictions have no such procedures in place. Too often, when responding to a domestic violence call involving a colleague, police officers will abandon written domestic violence policy and look the other way. Law enforcement leaders acknowledge that this problem exists in the police community and are seeking ways to demonstrate through policy and actions that domestic violence is a crime that must be responded to swiftly and appropriately, even if the perpetrator is a fellow police officer. Because domestic violence involving police officers affects the entire agency--and the community as well, it is important that all officers, not just managers and supervisors, understand the tactics of batterers and the complex dynamics of domestic violence so that they are equipped to take appropriate action.

Therefore, OJP encourages jurisdictions to submit applications that propose to implement effective policies and protocols that provide for a clear plan of action in response to officers who commit domestic violence. OJP is interested in supporting law enforcement initiatives that:

- involve collaborative relationships between police departments and local victim advocates to establish formal departmental policy to address early intervention and an immediate response to domestic violence incidents that involve a police officer, post-incident arrest and investigation procedures and, most importantly, victim safety and offender accountability;
- implement partnerships between police departments and local shelters for victims of domestic violence to develop protocol and procedures that enable victims to report domestic violence by a police officer without further jeopardizing their safety;
- provide mandatory education and training to all officers on the complex dynamics of domestic violence and the tactics of batterers so that they are better equipped to respond when the batterer is a police officer; and
- enlist, as consultants to the police department, trained experts with a sophisticated understanding of the tactics of batterers, experience facilitating groups that hold batterers accountable for their violent behavior, and substantial experience working with other criminal justice professionals and independent advocates from local domestic violence programs.

6. Collaboration between advocates working with victims of domestic violence, domestic violence programs, child protection service agencies and criminal justice agencies to provide support and resources to battered women and their children.

Systems dedicated to ensuring the safety of battered women and children are currently fragmented and sometimes working at cross purposes. Because the impact of domestic violence on victims and their children is a complex issue, there is a need for greater understanding and collaboration between advocates for victims of domestic violence, child protection workers and representatives from criminal justice agencies.

When a child witnesses his or her mother being seriously injured or even killed, not by a stranger, but by someone loved and trusted, the long-term effect can be devastating. In addition, children who grow up in violent homes may become violent themselves in later years. The effects of domestic violence on children may be so dramatic that child protection workers and criminal justice professionals develop counterproductive responses to victims of domestic violence. For example, placing children in foster care and removing them from their mother's custody for failing to protect the children from exposure to violence may re-victimize the mother and her children. Collaborative efforts to ensure the safety and well-being of all victims and hold the violent person accountable are essential.

OJP is interested in supporting:

- the creation of combined advocacy programs and other services for victims of domestic violence and their children; the creation of working groups comprised of advocates for abused women, advocates for abused children, representatives from child protection services, the judiciary and other court personnel to develop policies and protocols that aggressively intervene with perpetrators of domestic violence (even if they have no legal relationship to the child) and lead to the protection of children by increasing the safety, well-being, and autonomy of victims of domestic violence;
- the revision of management information systems in the civil, family and criminal divisions of the courts and within child protection services or child welfare systems to more effectively track and identify perpetrators of domestic violence;
- legal advocacy for victims of domestic violence who are required to appear in juvenile, family or civil court to address custody, visitation, protection orders, child support and immigration issues; and

- inter-disciplinary training on the complexity of domestic violence, the co-occurrence of domestic violence and child abuse, the impact of domestic violence on children who witness it, and options for increasing safety for victims of domestic violence and their children for law enforcement officers, prosecutors, judges, court personnel, child protection workers, guardians ad litem and others in the criminal justice and human services systems.

7. The development and implementation of coordinated initiatives to address incidents of stalking occurring in a domestic violence context.

Each year more than 1 million women are stalked. Almost 60 percent of these victims are stalked by some type of intimate partner--former or current spouse, former or current cohabiting partner, or current or former date or boyfriend. In addition, there is a strong link between stalking and domestic violence. Approximately 80 percent of the women who were stalked by a current or former intimate reported being physically assaulted by that stalker at some point in the relationship.

OJP is interested in receiving proposals for developing policies, protocols, and projects to address stalking in domestic violence cases. OJP seeks to fund programs that demonstrate a commitment to aggressive case management by implementing coordinated approaches that require thorough investigations, early intervention, vigorous prosecution, frequent judicial oversight, and close supervision in stalking cases to reduce the risk of injury to the victim. Specifically, applicants may submit proposals for the development and implementation of one or more of the following strategies:

- the establishment of vertical case management systems within police departments and/or prosecutor's offices so that one police officer and/or prosecutor handles the case from the beginning to the end;
- training programs for police officers, prosecutors, and other criminal justice professionals to educate them in identifying and managing stalking cases; and,

- the creation of dedicated teams of police officers, prosecutors, court personnel, and/or parole and probation officers within existing domestic violence units to investigate, monitor, and aggressively arrest and prosecute offenders for the crime of stalking.

A. Eligible Grantees

Eligible grantees for this Program are States, Indian tribal governments, State and local courts, and units of local government. (Note: Indian tribal governments should apply through the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Order Program Application Kit for Indian Tribal Governments.) For the purposes of this Program, a unit of local government is any city, county, township, town, borough, parish, village, or other general-purpose political subdivision of a State; an Indian tribe that performs law enforcement functions as determined by the Secretary of the Interior; or, for the purpose of assistance eligibility, any agency of the District of Columbia government or the United States Government performing law enforcement functions in and for the District of Columbia and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

By statute, police departments, pre-trial service agencies, district or city attorneys' offices, sheriffs' departments, probation and parole departments, shelters, nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services agencies and universities are not units of local government for the purposes of this grant program. These agencies or organizations may administer grant funds and assume responsibility for the development and implementation of the project, but they must apply through a State, State or local court, Indian tribal government or a unit of local government.

B. Certification of Eligibility

To be eligible to receive funding through this Program, applicants must:

- (1) certify that their laws or official policies–
 - (a) encourage or mandate arrests of domestic violence offenders based on probable cause that an offense has been committed; and

 (b) encourage or mandate arrest of domestic violence offenders who violate the terms of a valid and outstanding protection order;

(2) demonstrate that their laws, policies, or practices and their training programs discourage dual arrests of offender and victim;

(3) certify that their laws, policies, or practices prohibit issuance of mutual restraining orders of protection except in cases where both spouses file a claim and the court makes detailed findings of fact indicating that both spouses acted primarily as aggressors and that neither spouse acted primarily in self-defense; and

(4) certify that their laws, policies, and practices do not require, in connection with the prosecution of any misdemeanor or felony domestic violence offense, or in connection with the filing, issuance, registration, or service of a protection order, or a petition for a protection order, to protect a victim of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault, that the victim bear the costs associated with the filing of criminal charges against the offender, or the costs associated with the filing, issuance, registration, or service of a warrant, protection order, petition for a protection order, or witness subpoena, whether issued inside or outside the State, tribal or local jurisdiction.

Eligible applicants must submit as part of the application a letter signed by the chief executive officer of the State, Indian tribal government, or unit of local government certifying to the conditions listed above. If any of these laws, policies, or practices are not pre-existing in the applicant jurisdiction, the State, Indian tribal government, or unit of local government applying for grant funds must provide assurances that it will be in compliance with these requirements by the date on which the next session of the State legislature ends or, in the case of certification, by no later than October 28, 2002. Furthermore, the applicant must identify the type of policy that it intends to develop, and specify the process by which the policy will be developed and enacted and the agency or office or group of agencies or offices responsible for developing the law, policy, or practice. The policy development process should involve a coordinated effort by criminal justice personnel and nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs, including local shelters, advocacy organizations, and domestic violence coalitions.

C. Award Priority

The Violence Against Women Act gives priority to applicants that:

- (1) do not currently provide for centralized handling of cases involving domestic violence by police, prosecutors, and courts;
- (2) demonstrate a commitment to strong enforcement of laws, and prosecution of cases, involving domestic violence, including the enforcement of protection orders from other States and jurisdictions (including tribal jurisdictions);
- (3) have established cooperative agreements or can demonstrate effective ongoing collaborative arrangements with neighboring jurisdictions to facilitate the enforcement of protection orders from other States and jurisdictions (including tribal jurisdictions); and
- (4) for applicants proposing to further purposes (4) and (7), as set forth in pages 3-4 of this application kit, plan to develop and install data collection and communication systems, including computerized systems, and training on how to use these systems effectively to link police, prosecutors, courts, and tribal jurisdictions for the purpose of identifying and tracking protection orders and violations of protection orders, in those jurisdictions where such systems do not exist or are not fully effective.

D. Types of Applicants

In Fiscal Year 2001, OJP's Violence Against Women Office will accept applications for the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program from both new applicants and current grantees.

NEW APPLICANTS

New applicants include any jurisdictions that are not currently receiving funds through the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program. During Fiscal Year 2001, a limited number of grant awards will be available to new applicants who encourage or mandate arrest of domestic violence offenders as part of a coordinated community response to domestic violence.

CURRENT GRANTEES

Current grantees include States, Indian tribal governments or units of local government that have previously received an award through the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies Program. Current grantees are eligible for continuation grants to support project activities for an extended period of time or for supplemental grants that would expand the scope of current activities. Current grantees are eligible to apply under this solicitation if their official grant end date is prior to June 30, 2002.

APPLICATION GUIDELINES

Applicants are strongly encouraged to consider the following guidelines as they develop their proposals.

A. Impact of Current and Prior Efforts to Prevent and Reduce Domestic Violence

If available, all applicants are encouraged to submit data demonstrating the impact of the jurisdiction's current and prior efforts to prevent and reduce domestic violence. Specifically, OJP is seeking data that include baseline information to illustrate the "before and after" impact of community efforts to combat domestic violence. Comparison data of particular interest to OJP include, but are not limited to, increases or decreases in the number of:

- domestic homicides;
- domestic violence case dismissals;
- 9-1-1 calls;
- recidivism rates;
- conviction rates for domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking cases;
- protection orders issued;
- dual arrests; and
- services provided for victims of domestic violence and their children.

In all categories, information should be provided, if applicable, on the numbers of persons served and the number of persons seeking assistance who could not be served. When submitting this information, applicants are encouraged to identify the funding source that supported the effort, if known. OJP is required by statute to identify projects funded through its various grant programs, particularly the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program, the STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grants Program, the STOP Violence Against Indian Women Program, and the Rural Domestic Violence and Child Victimization Enforcement Grant Program, and the impact these programs are having on preventing and reducing violence against women.

B. Coordination with the STOP Formula Grant Program and Other Federal Efforts

To ensure the consistency of State goals with respect to reducing violence against women, States that apply for funds through the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program are encouraged to administer the program through the same agency that administers the STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grant Program, unless there is a compelling reason to place responsibility for this program with a different agency.

Courts and units of local government are required to submit a copy of the application to the State agency that administers the STOP Program to facilitate coordination with the STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grant Program in their respective States. (A list of these State agencies may be found in Appendix C.)

C. Coordination With Other OJP Bureaus, Program Offices and Other Federal Agencies

All applicants should specify additional funding which they currently have or for which they are applying from other OJP Bureaus and Program Offices. These are: the Bureau of Justice Assistance; the Bureau of Justice Statistics; the National Institute of Justice; the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention; the Office for Victims of Crime; the Corrections Program Office; the Drug Courts Program Office and the Executive Office of Weed and Seed. Applicants also are encouraged to provide information on related funding they may be receiving from the Department of Justice's Office of Community Oriented Policing Services and from offices and bureaus in other Federal agencies.

Grant recipients must agree to work in collaboration with OJP-designated contractors providing technical assistance through the Violence Against Women Office. Grant recipients will be asked to identify advocates from local domestic violence programs, law enforcement officers, prosecutors, judges, and other representatives from the criminal justice system and the community to participate in institutes, workshops, and other technical assistance activities or events. As participation in these activities or events often will involve out-of-state travel, applicants are required to include at least $15,000 ($25,000 for Statewide and multi-statewide projects) in the project budget to support travel costs associated with these activities. This amount should be included in the budget's "Travel" category, should be accompanied by an estimated number of trips, and should be broken down into estimated costs associated with each trip (airfare, lodging, per diem, cab fare, etc.). Additionally, any portion of this amount that would be used to support the travel of nonprofit partners must appear in the "Contracts" category. If this is done, the dollar amount must be designated clearly as travel funds for the non-profit partners.

D. Coordination with NonProfit, NonGovernmental Domestic Violence Programs

All applicants are required to enter into formal, respectful collaborations with nonprofit, nongovernmental organizations serving victims of domestic violence. In developing applications for the Arrest Program, jurisdictions are encouraged to consider some important distinctions between victim advocates who work for:

- ▶ governmental agencies (e.g., the police department or the district or city attorney's office);
- ▶ victim advocates who represent nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs (e.g., shelters, advocacy groups

- or coalitions); and
- legal advocates (e.g., students from law school clinics, paralegals, attorneys working for legal service agencies or independent attorneys).

While there is an important role for all victim advocates to play in the creation of a coordinated community response to domestic violence, the Violence Against Women Act requires the participation of nonprofit, nongovernmental private sexual abuse or domestic violence programs in the development and implementation of the project. This does not preclude applicants from requesting support for governmental victim services but the budget and budget narrative must distinguish between the two and should include fair compensation for the contributions of nonprofit, nongovernmental victim service agencies. In addition, if funding is requested for both governmental and nongovernmental victim assistance and advocacy, the project narrative must provide an explanation of how collaboration will be achieved between these different entities.

In addition, in order to be eligible for funding, victim services programs must meet all of the following criteria:

- Victim services programs must have, as one of their primary purposes, to provide services to victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, dating violence or stalking.

Experts view domestic violence as a pattern of coercive behavior that is used by one person to gain power and control over a current or former intimate partner. This pattern of behavior may include physical or sexual violence, emotional and psychological intimidation, threats, verbal abuse, stalking, isolation and economic control. When victims of domestic violence flee from abuse, perpetrators of domestic violence frequently claim to be victims in order to locate their former victims, punish them for leaving, or regain control over victims through legal proceedings. Organizations that claim to assist victims but actually assist perpetrators in regaining control over victims are not eligible for support. Moreover, in cases of dual arrest or cross allegations of abuse, projects must not provide victim services to the primary or predominant aggressor.

- Victim services programs must reflect (e.g.

through mission statements, training for all staff, etc.) an understanding that the violence perpetrated against victims is grounded in an abuse of power by offenders, reinforced through intimidation and coercion, sanctioned by traditional societal and cultural norms, and supported by the legal system's historically discriminatory response to domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking crimes.

Victim services programs must have this understanding because existing cultural and legal norms validate perpetrator conduct, compromise victim safety, discourage social support for victims, and perpetuate societal tolerance of the violence. In the context of these norms, perpetrator conduct impedes the liberty and autonomy of victims, creates fear of the perpetrator, causes physical and/or psychological injury, and limits the victim's access to services. The philosophy of victim services programs must reject the use of violence and intimidation to perpetuate these and other forms of inequality.

- Victim services programs must address a demonstrated need in their communities by providing services that promote the integrity and self sufficiency of victims, improve their access to resources, and create options for victims seeking safety from perpetrator violence.

A lack of services alone does not demonstrate the need for a particular program to be funded. Rather, states, tribal governments, or unit of local governments, should determine whether there is a demonstrated need for the proposed services and whether the applicant would serve a significant number of victims who do not otherwise have access to resources such as safe housing, economic self sufficiency, advocacy and counseling, and culturally appropriate services. Services must be designed to restore victim autonomy and liberty, for example, by assisting victims when perpetrators have denied them access to financial resources such as family income or bank accounts.

Victim services programs must not engage in activities that compromise victim safety.

Examples of activities that compromise victim safety include, but are not limited to: mediation, alternative dispute resolution, couples counseling, or any other intervention that implies that both parties are responsible for the perpetrator's violence; failing to respect victim autonomy and decision making; intervention or counseling programs for perpetrators that do not use the coercive power of the criminal justice system to hold them accountable for their behavior, such as anger or stress management programs; and providing perpetrators with confidential information about the whereabouts or activities of victims or their families.

- Victim services programs must consult and coordinate with nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs including sexual assault and domestic violence victim services programs.

Applicants must demonstrate that they have consulted and coordinated in a meaningful way with sexual assault and domestic violence victim services programs or coalitions.

E. Award Amounts

There is no specific amount for which eligible jurisdictions may apply, however, the availability of funding in Fiscal Year 2001 is very limited.

Applicants should carefully consider the resources needed to implement a community-wide project and present a realistic budget that accurately reflects the costs involved, for a 12 month budget. Current grantees should conduct a thorough assessment of their continuation needs. Budget requests should not exceed $300,000 for individual units of local government, State or local courts, or $900,000 for State-wide or regional projects involving 10 or more counties. Only current grantees may exceed these limits when justified by previous award amounts for a 12 month period.

F. Length of Grant Period

Grant periods and budget requests for all new, continuation or supplemental projects may not exceed 12 months.

REVIEW PROCESS

OJP will convene expert panels to review all applications, using the selection criteria set forth below. Applications that best meet the selection criteria also will be reviewed by OJP staff. Based on the panel recommendations and staff analyses of the applications, applicants may be invited to meet with staff from the Violence Against Women Office and OJP-designated contractors to further explore the feasibility of their proposed projects and review their current initiatives. The Assistant Attorney General of the Office of Justice Programs will make final funding decisions.

SELECTION CRITERIA

All applications will be rated on the basis of the criteria set forth below.

- Jurisdictions must demonstrate, through a Memorandum of Understanding, that a plan for a comprehensive, system-wide, coordinated community response to domestic violence has been adopted and that there is a commitment to establishing or maintaining formal collaboration between nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs (e.g., local battered women's shelters, advocacy organizations or coalitions), and representatives from law enforcement, prosecution, the courts, probation and other criminal justice agencies. This Memorandum of Understanding must be signed by the leadership of all participating nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs and criminal justice agencies (e.g., the executive director of the battered women's shelter, the chief of police, the district or city attorney, the chief judge of a participating court and/or a chief of probation). (See page 18 of this Application Kit and the Sample MOU in Appendix D for a detailed explanation of what is required in the Memorandum of Understanding.)

- The grantee's proposal must address domestic violence as a serious violation of criminal law through one or more of the eight statutory Program Purposes of the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program (see pages 3-4 of this Application Kit), particularly as they address one or more of the Special Interest Program Categories (outlined on pages 4-9 of this Application Kit).
- The proposed project demonstrates meaningful attention to victim safety and offender accountability.
- The application describes the impact of current or prior efforts to prevent and reduce domestic violence in the jurisdiction and details the need--or continued need-- for the project.
- The application clearly describes the community to be served--including diverse, traditionally underserved populations of victims of domestic violence (e.g., women of color, immigrant women, women in same-sex relationships, women with disabilities and/or the elderly).
- The project activities are clearly described and reflect sound and innovative strategies to improve victim safety and offender accountability.
- The planning, development and implementation strategy, organizational and staff capability and general time line are clearly described.
- The budget is reasonable, as it relates to proposed project activities.
- The application includes plans to evaluate program effectiveness and share the results of the project with other jurisdictions that may be interested in adopting similar approaches.

In addition to the criteria set forth above, current grantees applying for continuation or supplemental funding also must meet the following criteria:

- Past activities supported with Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies funds have been limited to addressing the problem of domestic violence as defined by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, 42 U.S.C., 3796 hh-4(1).⁷
- The grantee has attended, and actively participated in, OJP-sponsored workshops and other technical assistance events required as a Special Condition of the current grant award.
- The grantee has complied with all other Special Conditions of the current grant award.
- The grantee has completed the project goals and objectives according to the approved time line.
- The grantee has demonstrated maximum utilization of available resources and an effort to continue the project after Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program funds are exhausted.
- The grantee has made timely progress in development or completion of the project products.
- The grantee has complied with the OMB audit requirement.
- The grantee has adhered to programmatic and financial reporting requirements.

⁷ The term domestic violence includes felony or misdemeanor crimes of violence committed by a current or former spouse of the victim, by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common, by a person who is cohabitating with or has cohabitated with the victim as a spouse, by a person similarly situated to a spouse of the victim under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction receiving grant monies, or by any other adult person against a victim who is protected from that person's acts under the domestic or family violence laws of the eligible State, Indian tribal government, or unit of local government that receives a grant under the Program..

Application Content

Under GMS, the SF-424 will be completed online; the project narrative, budget narrative, which includes the budget worksheet, and other program attachments will be submitted online as attachments; and the MOU, letter of nonsupplanting, letter(s) of support, and Certification of Compliance will be submitted by fax (or online under “other program attachments” if applicants have these documents available electronically). A fully executed application, for the purposes of this program, must include the following:

A. Application for Federal Assistance (SF-424)

The SF-424 will be completed online via the GMS. A sample of a completed SF-424 is included in Appendix E for your reference. The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance number for this Program is 16.590, and the title is Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Discretionary Grants Program.

Eligible grantees for this Program are States, State and local courts, Indian tribal governments, and units of local government. For the purposes of this program, a unit of local government is any city, county, township, town, borough, parish, village, or other general-purpose political subdivision of a State; an Indian tribe that performs law enforcement functions as determined by the Secretary of the Interior; or, for the purpose of assistance eligibility, any agency of the District of Columbia government or the United States Government performing law enforcement functions in and for the District of Columbia and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. By statute, police departments, pre-trial service agencies, district or city attorneys’ offices, sheriffs’ departments, probation and parole departments, shelters, universities and nonprofit, nongovernmental victim service agencies are not units of local government for the purposes of this grant program. These agencies or organizations may administer grant funds, and they may be responsible for the development and implementation of the project, but they must apply through a State, State or local court, Indian tribal government or a local unit of government.

For purposes of the SF-424, please list the Employer Identification Number (EIN) of the jurisdiction applying for the grant and not the EIN of the agency administering the funds. Applicants must ensure that the information for the authorizing official and alternate contact are filled out correctly. The signing authority is an individual authorized to accept grant funds on behalf of your agency. If the individual applying online is not the signing authority, that individual must list the authorizing official’s name and contact information where appropriate.

B. Project Narrative

The Project Narrative must be submitted on line via the Grants Management System as an attachment. The Project Narrative should be no longer than necessary but in no case should exceed twelve double-spaced, typed pages on 8 ½ x 11 inch paper. The narrative should include the following:

- 1. Need for the Project (not to exceed two pages): Applicants should submit data, if available, demonstrating the impact of the jurisdiction’s current and prior efforts to prevent and reduce domestic violence; identify the population to be served; state why existing programs cannot meet the jurisdiction’s needs and how the target population would benefit from the proposed project. In addition, applicants should describe the communities in which they are located. This profile should include descriptions of the size, type (e.g. urban, suburban, or rural), and general population of the community, specifying the diverse, traditionally underserved parts of the community to be served. Also, brief descriptions of the types of resources and services currently available to victims of domestic violence should be included.
- 2. What Will be Done (not to exceed four pages): All applicants should submit a statement describing how the proposed project would assist the jurisdiction in addressing the identified need, the issues to be addressed during the planning process, and the expected outcomes. The goals should be specifically related to the program purposes or Special Interest Categories to be addressed. Applicants also should outline the specific tasks to be performed and the time line for their completion.

All current grantees requesting supplemental funding to expand current project activities should describe how the additional funds will enhance the existing program and assist the jurisdiction in addressing any changes in the process for implementation.

Match is not required for this grant program; however applicants are encouraged to maximize the impact of Federal grant dollars by contributing to the costs of their projects. Supplemental contributions may be cash, in-kind services, or a combination of both; however, do not include match contributions in the budget, budget narrative, or SF-424 form.

3. Who Will Implement the Project (not to exceed two pages): All applicants must identify the agency/agencies or office/s responsible for carrying out the project. This section should identify clearly all of the project partners, specifying their respective roles and responsibilities and the collaborative relationship to be developed/enhanced among criminal justice system practitioners, domestic violence advocates, and other community services providers. Current grantees should identify any new partners involved in project activities or in administering the grant.

All applications must include the required Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) (described on page 18 of this Application Kit and in Appendix D) as a separate attachment to the application. Signed MOUs must be faxed separately to both the Violence Against Women Office at 202/354-4185 and to 202/354-4147 by the deadline. All faxed attachments should be labeled with the “Grants to Encourage Arrest Program” and the application number assigned by the GMS system.

Joint applications from two or more State governments, Indian tribal governments, courts, or units of local government, must fully describe the relationship among the units of government represented in the application. Also, one State, one Indian tribal government, one court, or one unit of local government must be designated to receive and administer grant funds and to manage and coordinate all grant activities.

- 4.. How Success Will be Measured (not to exceed one page): All applicants should describe the criteria that will be used to evaluate the project’s effectiveness. This section should explain how the evaluation would be designed to provide an objective assessment of the effectiveness or impact of the procedures, technology, or services supported with the grant funds. If appropriate, the evaluation process should be designed to provide ongoing or periodic feedback on the effectiveness or utility of particular programs, educational offerings, or achievements, which could then be further refined during the remainder of the project period.

As a special condition to the award, grantees will be required to collect and maintain data that measure the impact of the jurisdiction's current and prior efforts to reduce and stop violence against women. Specifically, grantees are required to collect data, including baseline information, that illustrates the impact of efforts before and after implementation of any grant-supported strategies. Again, data to be collected include, but are not limited to: the number of 911 calls; arrests; dual arrests; violations of protection orders; prosecutions and dismissals of domestic violence cases; conviction rates; recidivism; services provided for victims of domestic violence and their children; and, domestic homicide rates. Grantees are required to report the number of persons served, if applicable, and the number of persons seeking services who could not be served.

5. The Products (not to exceed one page): This section should describe the products that would be generated and how they could be used to assist other jurisdictions that wish to implement mandatory or pro-arrest policies to address domestic violence.
6. Related Federal projects (not to exceed two pages): All applicants are requested to provide the following information in their applications:
 - active Federal grant awards from OJP Bureaus or Program Offices, the Office of Community Oriented Policing Services or other Federal agencies already supporting this or related efforts;
 - information on any pending application(s) for Federal money for this or related efforts; and

- how these would be coordinated with the funding sought through this application. For each, the program/project title; the Federal grantor agency; the Federal award amount; and a very brief description of its purpose must be included.

This information is requested to encourage better coordination among Federal agencies in addressing State and local needs.

Related efforts is defined for these purposes as for:

- the same purpose (i.e., the proposed award would supplement, expand, complement, or continue activities funded with other Federal grants);
- another phase or component of the same program/project (for example, to implement a planning effort funded by other Federal monies, or to provide a substance abuse treatment or education component within a criminal justice project); and/or
- providing services of some kind (e.g., technical assistance, research, evaluation) to the program/project described in your application.

C. Budget and Budget Narrative

Each application must include a detailed budget for the project. The project budget must be complete, reasonable, and cost-effective in relation to the proposed project. The budget should provide the basis for the computation of all project-related costs. It should cover the cost of all components of the project and clearly identify costs attributable to the project evaluation. There must be a clear link between the proposed activities and the proposed budget items. In developing the budget, applicants should bear in mind that all partners, private and public, should be fairly compensated for their participation in any project-related activities, including but not limited to compensation for time and travel expenses to attend required technical assistance workshops. The budget must include compensation for services rendered by all partners including criminal justice agencies and nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs, e.g. shelters and advocacy organizations.

*All applicants are required to allocate funds ($25,000 for statewide, multi-statewide and tribal consortium projects, and $15,000 for local projects) to support travel costs associated with technical assistance and capacity building activities (e.g., training institutes, site consultations, audio- and video-conferences) sponsored by OJP-designated technical assistance providers. The amount should be included in the “travel” category. Please provide an estimated breakdown for this amount (include the number of trips, number of travelers, airfare or mileage, lodging, per diem, etc.). These funds are to be used only for OJP-designated technical assistance unless otherwise approved by the Violence Against Women Office. If awarded,, VAWO will provide you with information on approved technical assistance activities. This required amount of $15,000 or $25,000 should be included in the “travel” category. Please provide an estimated breakdown for this amount (include number of trips, number of travelers, airfare or mileage, lodging, per diem, etc.).

Consultant rates in excess of $450 per day require prior approval by the Violence Against Women Office. A Budget Detail Worksheet is included in this Application Kit as Appendix F. You will submit your budget and budget narrative online as one attachment under “Budget Narrative”; however, when preparing these items, please use the Budget Detail Worksheet as a guide, including all required budget categories, as needed.

The budget and budget narrative should describe clearly:

- the proposed amount and uses of grant funds over the grant period and
- how the amounts of the specific budget items were determined.

Applicants should include in their budget narratives detailed justification for all items budgeted, paying particular attention to the impact on or connection to a coordinated community response. Furthermore, applicants must provide assurances that these items will be used primarily to achieve the goals and objectives of the project funded.

In order to maximize the allocation of scarce grant funds, OJP’s Violence Against Women -Office may eliminate budget items that do not directly affect victim safety and offender accountability. Although the Violence Against Women Office staff will consider all budget requests, applicants are encouraged to seek alternative sources of funding for:

- vehicles
- weapons
- bullet-proof vests
- cameras
- law enforcement uniforms
- law enforcement uniform cleaning
- police radios

D. Memorandum of Understanding

Each application must include, as an attachment, a Memorandum of Understanding ⁸

⁸ A coordinated community response to domestic violence can be achieved only when all partners enter into a formal, respectful collaboration. Collaboration should be thought of as the most interactive way of working together while still retaining the separate identities of all the agencies and organizations involved. All parties need to acknowledge that each agency or organization has a special function, a particular authority, and valuable services that it brings to the joint effort. Participants in respectful collaborations bring separate organizations into a new structure with full commitment to a common mission. Such relationships require comprehensive planning and well-defined channels of communication at all levels. The collaborative body determines authority. The risk to each created and signed by the chief executive officers of all criminal justice agencies and non-profit, non-governmental domestic violence programs that will collaborate to plan, develop and implement the project. The Memorandum of Understanding must:

- provide a brief history of the collaborative relationship among the partners, including when and under what circumstances the relationship began and when each partner entered into the relationship;
- specify the extent of each party's participation in developing the application;
- clearly state the roles and responsibilities each organization or agency would assume to ensure the success of the proposed project;
- identify the representatives of the planning and development team who would be responsible for planning, developing and implementing project activities, and describe how they would work together and with project staff;
- indicate approval of the proposed project budget by all signing parties;
- describe the resources each partner would contribute to the project, either through time, in-kind contributions or grant funds (for example, office space, project staff, training).

Letters of support may not be submitted in lieu of the Memorandum of Understanding.

E. Certifications and Assurances Regarding Arrest Policies participating agency or organization is greater because each partner contributes its resources and its reputation. Potential imbalance of power always should be addressed and overcome, particularly when high level appointed or elected government officials (or their designees) are asked to participate as equals with representatives from the community, including independent victim advocates affiliated with nonprofit, nongovernmental domestic violence programs. In the end, all partners should secure the resources jointly and share the results and rewards.

All applicants must submit a letter of certification signed by the chief executive officer of the State, Indian tribal government, or the unit of local government applying. The letter must certify that:

- the laws or official policies of the jurisdiction encourage or mandate arrests of domestic violence offenders based on probable cause that an offense has been committed;
- the laws or official policies of the jurisdiction encourage or mandate arrests of domestic violence offenders who violate the terms of a valid and outstanding protection order;
- their laws, policies, or practices and their training programs discourage dual arrests of offender and victim;
- their laws, policies, or practices prohibit issuance of mutual restraining orders of protection except in cases where both spouses file a claim and the court makes detailed findings of fact indicating that both spouses acted primarily as aggressors and that neither spouse acted primarily in self-defense; and
- their laws, policies, and practices do not require, in connection with the prosecution of any misdemeanor or felony domestic violence offense, or in connection with the filing, issuance, registration, or service of a protection order, or a petition for a protection order, to protect a victim of domestic violence, stalking, or sexual assault, that the victim bear the costs associated with the filing of criminal charges against the offender, or the costs associated with the filing, issuance, registration, or service of a warrant, protection order, petition for a protection order, or witness subpoena, whether issued inside or outside the State, tribal, or local jurisdiction.

Applicants who do not have these laws, policies, or practices currently in place must provide the dates of the next State or Tribal legislative session and assurances that they will be in compliance by the date on which this session ends, or in the case of the last certification requirement, by no later than October 20, 2002.

F. Assurances

Please review carefully the enclosed forms (4000/3), (SF-LLL) and (4061/6) contained in Appendices G and H. You will be agreeing to these assurances and certifications when you submit your application on line through the Grants Management System. Note: If the authorizing official is not the individual submitting the application in the GMS system, be sure the correct authorizing official information has been entered.

G. Non-Supplantation Letter

All applicants must submit a letter certifying that no supplantation of non-Federal funds will take place should a grant award be made. This letter must be signed by a duly authorized government official. A Sample Non-Supplanting Letter is contained in Appendix I.

Administrative requirements

A. General Requirements

Single Points of Contact Review: Executive Order 12372 requires applicants from States and units of local government or other organizations providing services within a State to submit a copy of the application to the State Single Points of Contact (SPOC), if one exists, if this program has been selected for review by the State. The State Single Points of Contact are listed in Appendix J of this application kit. Applicants must contact their State SPOC to determine if the program has been selected for State review. The date that the application was sent to the SPOC, or the reason such submission is not required, should be entered in block 16 on the Application for Federal Assistance, SF-424.

B. Civil Rights Requirements

All recipients of federal grant funds are required to comply with nondiscrimination requirements contained in various federal laws. Specifically, the statute that governs OJP-funded programs or activities (Section 809(c), Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 3789d) prohibits such discrimination, as follows:

No person in any State shall on the ground of race, color, religion, national origin, sex [or disability]⁹ be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under, or denied employment in connection with any program or activity funded in whole or in part with funds made available under this title.

If funded, grantees must acknowledge that failure to submit an acceptable Equal Employment Opportunity Plan (if grantee is required to submit one pursuant to 28 CFR 42.302), that is approved by the Office of Civil Rights, is a violation of its Certified Assurances and may result in the suspension of the drawdown of funds.

If any court or administrative agency makes a finding of discrimination on grounds of race, color, religion, national origin, gender, disability, or age against a recipient of funds after a due process hearing, the recipient must agree to forward a copy of the findings to the OJP Office of Civil Rights.

Eligibility for Employment in the United States: Organizations funded through this Program must agree to complete and keep on file, as appropriate, the Immigration and Naturalization Service Employment Eligibility Form (I-9). This form is to be used by the recipient of Federal funds to verify that persons employed by the recipient are eligible to work in the United States.

C. Financial Requirements for All Applicants

Grant Funds Must Supplement and Not Supplant: A written certification in the form of a letter to the Assistant Attorney General of the Office of Justice Programs from the applicant's authorizing official must be included in the application package. The letter must certify that federal funds will be used to supplement existing funds for programs to combat violence against women and not replace funds that have been appropriated for the same purpose. For example, if a grantee, prior to submitting an application, had committed to develop and implement a program to combat violence against women, then the grantee must make those dollars available in addition to those requested under this Program. Potential supplanting will be the subject of application review, as well as pre-award review, post-award monitoring and audit. If there is a potential presence of supplanting, the applicant or grantee will be required to supply documentation demonstrating that the reduction in non-federal resources occurred for reasons other than the receipt or expected receipt of federal funds. The nonsupplantation requirement applies only to State and local public agencies; it does not apply to nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services programs.

⁹ Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 prohibits identical discrimination on the basis of disability.

D. Audit Requirement

Recipients who expend $300,000 or more of Federal funds during their fiscal year are required to submit an organization-wide financial and compliance audit report. The audit must be performed in accordance with the U.S. General Accounting Office Government Auditing Standards.

E. Suspension or Termination of Funding

The Office of Justice Programs may suspend, in whole or in part, terminate funding for, or impose another sanction on a grantee for the following reasons:

- Failure to comply substantially with the requirements or statutory objectives of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, program guidelines issued thereunder, or other provisions of Federal law;
- Failure to make satisfactory progress toward the goals or strategies set forth in this application;
- Failure to adhere to the grant requirements, standard conditions or special conditions;

- Proposing or implementing substantial plan changes to the extent that, if originally submitted, the application would not have been selected for funding;
- Failure to submit reports; or
- Filing a false certification in this application or other report or document.

Before imposing sanctions, the Office of Justice Programs will provide reasonable notice to the grantee of its intent to impose sanctions and will attempt informally to resolve the problem. Hearing and appeal procedures will follow those in Department of Justice regulations in 28 C.F.R. part 18.

Reporting Requirements

A. Progress Reports

Grantees are required to submit progress reports twice a year. These reports should be used to describe the performance of activities or the accomplishment of objectives as set forth in the approved award application. Progress reports must be submitted within 30 days after the end of the reporting periods, which are June 30 and December 31 for the life of the award. OJP may opt, by special condition to the award, to combine the first report into the subsequent reporting period. For example, if the begin date on the award is June 1, OJP may opt to receive the first report 30 days after the December 31 reporting period.

B. Financial Status Reports

Financial status reports (SF 269a) are due quarterly on the 45th day following the end of each calendar quarter. A report must be submitted for every quarter the award is active even if there has been no financial activity during the reporting period. The final report is due 120 days after the end date of the award.

Future awards will be withheld, and access to grant funds will be denied, if the financial status reports are delinquent.

Sample Memorandum of Understanding

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

(SAMPLE)

The Community Domestic Violence Program (CDVP) enters into a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the Community Office of the Prosecuting Attorney (COPA).

History of Relationship

CDVP has been collaborating with COPA and other local agencies in the prevention, intervention and prosecution of domestic violence for many years. Beginning in 1988, the Director of CDVP and the COPA met monthly with representatives from other agencies as part of a Violence Intervention Task Force. In 1991, a smaller subcommittee of the larger task force began to meet separately to lay the ground work for a comprehensive, ongoing, coordinated response to domestic violence. The Community Assault Intervention Program (CAIP) is the product of these efforts. Since 1993, when the program was implemented, CAIP members have met on a regular basis to discuss more effective strategies for domestic violence prevention, intervention, prosecution and sentencing of batterers. The group is comprised of representatives from local law enforcement, prosecution, members from the CDVP, the judiciary, local counselors and therapists, student interns, court staff, and others who are interested and involved in these efforts.

Another example of the collaborative activities between CDVP and COPA is one that is ongoing. CDVP first received a STOP Violence Against Women Formula Grant in 1996 and established an Outreach Worker position to assist victims in the District Court. This position was in place prior to the COPA receiving the VAWA Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies grant, and formation of its Family Intervention Services Team (FIST). After FIST was formed, COPA and CDVP collaborated to meet victim needs. CDVP has dedicated a portion of one of its Outreach Worker's time to working with the COPA in addressing ongoing victim safety issues before and during trial.

Development of the Application

Discussions regarding the collaborative effort which is proposed in the application and detailed in this Memorandum began in earnest in February, 1998. An early meeting between the Director of CDVP (Director) and the Unit Leader of the COPA Domestic Violence Unit (Unit Leader) was to exchange basic information about the proposed safety program. The concept was later brought to CAIP for discussion, input and recommendations. A subcommittee from CAIP, of which the Unit Leader and Director are members, was formed to discuss specific guidelines for implementation of the safety program. The Director thereafter conducted an independent study of similar safety programs in other jurisdictions. Recent meetings between the Director and Unit Leader have led to the agreement reflected in this Memorandum and the submission of the grant application to fund this collaborative effort.

Instructions for Completion of the Application for Federal Assistance (SF 424)

The Application for Federal Assistance is a standard form used by most federal agencies. This form contains 18 different items which are to be completed before submission. All applications should include a completed and signed SF 424.

Item	Instructions
1	Type of Submission: If this proposal is not for construction or building purposes, check the “Non-Construction” box in the application section.
2	Date Submitted: Indicate the date you sent the application to OJP. The “Application Identifier” is the number assigned by your jurisdiction, if any, to track applications. If your jurisdiction does not assign an identifier number, leave this space blank.
3	Date Received by State: Leave blank. This item is completed by the State single point of contact, if applicable.
4	Date Received by Federal Agency: Leave blank. This item will be completed by OJP.
5	Applicant Information: The “Legal Name” is the unit of government of the parent organization. For example, the primary or parent organization of a law enforcement agency is the name of the city or township. Thus the city or township should be entered into the Legal Name box and the name of the law enforcement agency would be entered into the Organizational Unit box. Designate one person as the contact and include their telephone number. It is not unusual for the name of the contact person to differ from the authorized representative in Item 18 below.
6	Employer Identification Number: Each employer receives an employer identification number from the Internal Revenue Service. Generally, this number can be easily obtained from your agency’s accountant or comptroller.
7	Type of Applicant: Enter the appropriate letter in this space. If the applicant is representing a consortium of agencies, specify by checking Block N and entering “consortium”.
8	Type of Application: Check either “new” or “continuation”. Check “new”, if this will be your first award for the purpose described in the application, even if the applicant has received prior awards for other purposes. Check “continuation”, if the project will continue activities of a project, including minor modifications, or implement the next phase of a project that was begun under a prior award.
9	Name of Federal Agency: Type in the name of the awarding agency, “[insert agency name]”
10	Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Number: This would be contained in the program announcement. The number for this program would be [insert number].
11	Descriptive Title of Applicant’s Project: Type in the: (1) title of the program as it appears in the solicitation or announcement; (2) name of the cognizant Federal agency, ex. U.S. Department of Education; and (3) applicant’s fiscal year, i.e. twelve month audit period, ex. 10/1/97 - 9/30/98.
12	Areas Affected by Project: Identify the geographic area(s) of the project. Indicate “Statewide” or “National”, if applicable.
13	Proposed Project Dates: Fill in the proposed begin and end dates of the project. These dates may be adjusted by the Office of Justice Programs when the award is made.
14	Congressional Districts: Fill in the Congressional Districts in which the project will be located as well as the Congressional District(s) the project will serve. Indicate “Statewide” or “National”, if applicable.
15	Estimated Funding: In line “a”, enter the Federal funds requested, not to exceed the dollar amount allocated in the program announcement. Indicate any other resources that will be available to the project and the source of those funds on lines “b-f,” as appropriate.
16	State Executive Order 12372: Some states require you to submit your application to a State “Single Point of Contact” (SPOC) to coordinate applications for Federal funds within the state. If your State requires a copy of your application, indicate the date submitted. If a copy is not required, indicate the reason. (Refer to the “Administrative Requirements” section of the program announcement, for more information.) The SPOC is not responsible for forwarding your application to the Federal awarding agency.

17	Delinquent Federal Debt: This question applies to the applicant organization. Categories of debt include delinquent audit allowances, loans, and taxes.
